					1 Claudio:  Doing in the figure of a lamb the feats of a lion	2  Can the world buy such a jewel?
3  Give not this rotten orange to your friend.	4  Sweet Hero, now thy image doth appear / In the rare semblance that I loved it first	5 Hero:  I will do any modest office, my lord, to help my cousin to a good husband.	6  I talked to no man at that hour my lord	7  Nothing certainer: One Hero died defiled, but I do live	8 Benedick:  What, my dear Lady Disdain! are you yet living?	9  I should think this a gull, but that the white-bearded fellow speaks it
10  Ha! 'Against my will I am sent to bid you come in to dinner;' there's a double meaning in that	11  I do love nothing in the world so well as you: is not that strange?	12 Beatrice:  I wonder that you will still be talking Signor Benedick: nobody marks you.	13  Against my will I am sent to bid you come to dinner	14  I love you with so much of my heart that none is left to protest.	15  Kill Claudio	16 Don Pedro:  That she is worthy, I know
17  I shall see thee, ere I die, look pale with love	18  I will but teach them to sing, and restore them to the owner	19  As I wooed for thee to obtain her, I will join with thee to disgrace her.	20 Don John:  I had rather be a canker in a hedge than a rose in his grace	21  Any bar, any cross, any impediment will be medicinal to me	22  The word is too good to paint out her wickedness	23 Borachio:  Not honestly, my lord; but so covertly that no dishonesty shall appear in me
24  Proof enough to misuse the Prince, to vex Claudio, to undo Hero and kill Leonato	25  The lady is dead upon mine and my master's false accusation	26 Leonato:  Daughter, remember what I told you: if the Prince do solicit you in that kind, you know your answer.	27  My soul doth tell me Hero is belied	28  Do not live, Hero; do not open thine eyes	29  I say thou has belied mine innocent child.	30 Dogberry:  First, who think you the most desertless man to be constable?
31  They have belied a lady, thirdly they have verified unjust things, and to conclude, they are lying knaves
